

Chicago River Eco-Warrior Pledge

Friends of the Chicago River has been mobilizing volunteers for the past three decades. Our dedicated volunteers have spent countless hours working tirelessly to help us restore and protect the Chicago River. It's because of our volunteers that we have been able to see so many great things happen in the Chicago River, including an increase in the numbers of fish species, more paddlers, boaters and fishermen on and along the river, and increased habitat for wildlife.

But there's more to do, and that's where you come in. By signing this pledge you are joining the ranks of dedicated people all across the region standing up to protect the Chicago River.

Chicago River Eco-Warriors pledge to commit between five and five hundred hours dedicated to protecting and restoring the Chicago River watershed over the course of a year. Once the pledge is received, one of our staff or trained volunteers will contact you to design a plan to help you reach your pledged hours.
